THE THEATRE AT CAIRO.

Before writing this we happened to look at the August number of the "Revue d'Egypte et d'Orient," and found on pages 352 and 3°3. a note on the coming season, the crowning glory in the brilliant existence of the Cercle Artistique. We will not repeat it here, but we will cite a few names mentioned-Tamagno, Caruso, Alvarez, Renaud, Borci, Charlotte Wyns, Sammarco, Bellincioni, for opera; for drama, Bartet, Réjane, Brandès, Guitry, possibly Sarah Bernhardt and Mounet Sully, Antoine, Jean Coquelin, Le Bargy. Anyone can ook up these names in the review in question. Whom have we had? Bellincioni for opera for drama a week of Le Bargy, a week of the Lamberts, two performances of Coquelin,—and Moréno. And that is all. And what have we had? In opera, Asrael, a vulgar pantomime Iris, Tannhaüser completely travestied, Tosca, and Aida, of course; and in drama such stuff as Cour de Moineau and La Closerie des 24,487-12-1-906 troups whose only two stars were far too discouraged to show their worth to any real extent. We are told that the reign of the Cercle is over, and that a new theatre is to be built. That is good news : we shall no longer have hurried selections made anyhow (with the exception of one or two performers chosen for individual reasons), and no more pieces which no one wants to see, even well done. We know our Cercle and have suffered much at their hands : they are indeed a Cerole enclosing in an unbroken ring all choice, and impervious to all public opinion, getting up exh bitions of pictures in which only a few bad French paintings are shown, to represent an International Fine Arts Exhibition. And we know our thestre at Cairo, small, chilly, badly ventilated, with its interminable entr' actes, and its crowd of apathetic abonnés, who annex every stall in the place long before the eason begins, and who, during the season, drown all the performance by ceaseless coughs, whispers, rustling, and shifting of teet.

They are not a large nor an important section of Cairo : they have bought their seats as they might buy a frockcoat : a certain eachet, and weil of taste, gentility, and artistic propensities, enhanced by the chance of wearing evening dress, is obtained for the money. The few enlightened people who have boxes are an entire minority. Now that very minority-a few French and Italian and Syrian theatreg and very occasionally two or three of the English community, represents the real Cairo public for which the theatre should be open, that public who would go to good places in a good theatre, for good performances, but who will not go near the Khedivial Opera House except once in a way to a box. And that public is highly educated, musical, possessing more than one language, knowing books and plays and pictures, a public most of whom have heard the great plays and operas at Paris, London, and elsewhere: why then exclude them? We want a large theatre properly built, with not only stalls but some convenient circle where the abonnes might be housed—they might have the seats there-and welcome. The stalls and boxes, except a very few, should be open to everyone: in a word it should be an attraction for this very resident public and for the visitors. A. good manager who knows that his "house" depends on his efforts would soon see that good preformances were given, and that people were not played with, and laughed at, treated with that cynical and financial contempt which we have had hitherto; the artistes would respond to a good audience instead of showing, as did Coquelin, and to a slight degree the Le Bargy troupe, that they are playing to the ignorant. The Cairo audience has been called cold : of course it is, this abonné section which takes up so much place in the Cairo theatre, the Continental Bar, and such places, and so little if any-in the life and thought of European Cairo. The state of affairs and the remedy is obvious to anyone who frequents the theatre. Everyone has paid, and so no one cares: the very few who do are not listened to. The whole atmosphere real as metaphorical of the theatre is now chilly, now stifling-apathy smiled on by cynicism. Of course we cannot slways hope for the great names we have quoted, but we can always bave some : and general can be better selected, as also some conductor whose sole interests are not brass and crashing effects out of place, -as also a chorus with some sort of voice and volume, not to mention time. At present the average night is like, let us say, an "off-night" at Malta, if as good: and in the Valetta Theatre you pay eighteenpence, or at most two or three shillings, tor a stall. Let us hope that the change is really going to take place that we are going to have what we want, and that the 1905-6 season is the last inglorious flicker of what can we call it but pre-artistic Cairo. Let the financiers return to their stocks and shares, and the abonnés to their bars, and leave the management open for those who will devote themselves to pleasing Cairo, and the theatre to those who are only too ready to be pleased. who can appreciate and applaud whatever is really worthy of their attention.

An Unlucky House.

Three years ago Egypt was shocked by an atrocious double murder at Zagazig when two European ladies, Mmes Benetti and Galli, were assassinated by Arabs. The population christened the house as 'The Abode of Misfortune' and on Sunday night the house folfilled the destiny of this appellation by completely collapsing. No one was killed, fortunately. It was inhabited by a Greek doctor.

The Mixed Courts.

As a result of the adoption of English as a jadicial language a number of British lawyers have become members of the Egyptian Bar. There will be, consequently, four languages spoken in the Courts. The fact that the present organ cannot last much longer must be evident to any one with knowledge of such matters. No charge will be made for admission to the church, but it is hoped that every one will remember that they should contribute not less than the usual ticket price of such a concert if held in an ordinary room.

New Way of Paying Old Debts.

A Kench merchant, who for some time had been addicted to hasheesh, became possessed of the most morbid ideas, and on being pressed by some of his creditors to pay some old debts, whereas he had not the wherewithal, deter mined to commit suicide. This he did (our Keneh Correspondent says) the other morning after breakfasting as usual and going out to his shop. He returned an hour later and fixed a rope to the roof of his room. After making a noose round his neck he kicked away the chair on which he stood and so put an end to his life. His body was afterwards discovered hanging by his wife and family.

EGYPTIAN ESTATES.

A SUCCESSFUL COMPANY.

NEXT YEAR'S PROSPECTS.

The first annual report of the above company which appeared in our columns yesterday, will have been pleasant reading to the many shareholders of this very successful enterprise. Seldom in any country, and hardly ever in Egypt, has a board of directors been enabled to show such splendid results for the first year of a company's existence. This is all the more remarkable when one considers that the working period has only been for about nine months, and that the company has only had full use of the total issued capital during

The dividend on the ordinary shares is at the rate of 20% per annum, free of income tax, or 1/- in the £ and the large sum of £102,090. 2.10 has been placed to reserve. Besides this, the whole of the preliminary expenses, amounting to £3,98.14.8, are written off, and a balance profit of £9,189.11.7 is carried forward into the new year. Doubtless the Chairman at the first annual meeting, which will be held in London on the 11th inst., will give some further information of an interesting nature to the shareholders, but the above figures already speak for themselves with much force, notwithstanding what he may yet have to say

It is known that the company own large and valuable agricultural estates, besides several building lands, bought at considerably below present values, and these, coupled with entitle the Egyptian Estates to rank with the premier companies in this country.

In most cases the success of a company is the work of one individual, and the Egyptian Estates, Limited, is no exception to the rale. Mr. Montagn Summers, the managing director and founder of the company, has di-played will be made in the existing building so as to remarkable ability in the conduct of the com remarkable ability in the conduct of the company's affairs, as the balance-sheet proves, and the ungrudging way in which he has worked for the benefit of the general body of shareholders has presented to us an object-lesson on the conduct of public companies in this country. His efforts have at the same time been well backed up by the very able members of the advisory board in Egypt.

Although the first year has been so successful we are informed that there is every sign.

fol, we are informed that there is every sign that the coming year will be even more so. The company begins its new year free of all preliminary expenses, which is quite exceptional, and with a profit of £9 189.1.7 in Considerable profits on building lands, we are informed that there is every sign hand. Considerable profits on building lands, of which only a part were taken into last year's accounts, are due in the coming 12 months, and the agricultural estates will also have a full twelve months' working, which will materially enhance the profits in the next

THE PRINCE & THE COUNCILLORS.

We hear that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales greatly pleased the members of the Legislative Council who had the honour of being presented to him on Friday last, by his speech of welcome, in which he expressed his great satisfaction at meeting the representatives of the nation, and by his cordial references to the agricultural progress of the country. by his commendation of the educational activity of the notables of Egypt, and his good wishes for the future of Egypt and its people.

H.E. Abdel Hamid Pacha Saddik thanked the Prince in his name and that of the Council and remarked that the agricultural rogress of the country was due not only to the irrigation works that had enriched it but to the justice which the land enjoyed under the auspices of H.H. the Khedive. After referring to the interest taken by the notables in education, he expressed his pleasure and that of his colleagues at greeting the son of H. M. King Edward VII., who, when Prince of Wales, had also paid Egypt the compliment of a visit.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

PRINCE AT SAKKARAH.

THE PROGRESS OF ROYALTY.

Bedreshein, Sunday.

The usually somnolent village of Bedreshein, which is the station for Sakkara (refer to Baedarcker), is in a great state of excitement over the approaching visit of the Royal trave'lers, who are timed to arrive there at ten o'clock to morrow, Inshal'ah! Inter alia the venerable Sheikh of Bedre-hein, Mohamed Dodo, has prepared according to his humble estimation a worthy reception, consisting of Bedouin flags and banners draped across the hamlet's most noble thoroughfare. Mchamed is the proud owner of sixty donkeys and donkey-boys, and these have also been decked out for the auspicious occasion.

With all due acknowledgments for the kindly intention, his Royal H ghness will be wise in preferring the more comfortable locometion of the Khedive's brougham, which his Highne's has graciously placed at the disposal of his Royal guests. In this vehicle, by the bye, the distinguished travellers will drive to the Tombs of Sakkara. The progress of Princes acts as a healthy stimulus to national life. Potemkin built villages along the route followed by Catherine of Russia; Kaiser William's visit extended very considerably the system of communications of the Ottoman metropolia; H.I.M. the Sultan proceeds once a year to Stamboul by way of a sanded road. So, too, at Sakkara. carriageable route, tormed of Nilotic mud, crosses the smiling grass-lands between the palm-groves of B dreshein and the edge of the Lybian wilderness.

In the scant shade of this magnificent grove lie the rains of the Temple of Phta, the Sun-God, a picture que grouping of columns and Egyptian capitols, scattered around a silent pool. Beyond this, and similarly protected from the tense rays of the real god of day, is the statue of Rameses II., on whom be peace. It is of gigantic proportions but withal has nothing of awful majesty about it-indeed the soulptor has given to the Royal lips an expression of beautiful benevolence. When the writer arrived, he found the custodians busily engaged in washing his Egyptian greatness with a plentiful supp'y of soap and water!

The desert rante is lined with stones, and is regularly patrolled by Egyptian police. The Maison Mariette has also been fitted out for the nonce, and in one of the rooms looking out on to the desert a table has been daintily prepared on which two glasses and as many napkins stand conspicuous. This, however, was a sacrilegious peep through a crack in the partition. Also we may note that a wag has added to the Osirian inscriptions on the Tomb of Mira the XENOS.

The Prince and Princess of Wales paid a visit to Sakkarah yesterday. T.R.H. left Abdeen Bedreshein, arriving there at 9.10 a.m. The journey to Sakkarah was accomplished by 11 a.m. and after visiting the Temple and the Serapeum, the Royal party lunched at Mariette's House. Leaving Sakkarah about 3 p.m. their Royal Highnesses reached Cairo at 6 o'clock, having travelled from Bedre hein on board H.H. the Khedive's yacht Tehel el

NATIVE APPRECIATION

"Al Zaher" says : -

The Kings of England have a very good custom of sending their Heirs Apparent to visit the colonies, which they are one day destined to rule over. These visits are not on'y useful for the Government but for the Princes themselves. The Prince and Princess of Wales are now on a visit to Egypt, which welcomes them and receives them with great joy and with as much cordiality as was our own Khedive received at Windsor Castle. Now on this matter we have a word to say to some native cavillers, whose gossiping must cease Some people appear to think that this official visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales t. Ezypt is equivalent to an acknowledgment that in the opinion of England this country is a British colony. They argue that the programme of the arrangements made for the visit of the Prince and Princess show that the official festivities in Egypt will be quite as elaborate as they were in India. They declare that we Egyptians are, just as though we were Skilluks from the Sudan, to be decked up to please the royal guests, for a joust with old rifles and holding Arab sports of an antiquated fashion. Where are Amr ibn-el-Aass and his heroes, where is Khalid ih el-Wel eed and Tarik ibn Zyad ? What would these say when they saw how the world was now-a days and how poor a figure their descendants now cut ! To these and all such cavillings we make the following reply :-

The visit of our Royal guests is of great use to Egypt. They will see with their own eyes how prosperous and peaceable is the state of dependence which she deserves.

NOTES FROM PORT SAID.

LARGEST SHIP THROUGH CANAL.

A PILOT'S EXPLOITS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.) Port Said, Monday.

The leviathan S.S. Q iloa, the second of four new British India steamers of the same type, recently built for their coast service, arrived here on Friday. One of our brilliant examples of seamanship, a Greek pilot, boardet her at once and proceeded, much to the amusement of the numerous onlookers, to run over two booys, one of which was 17 feet nigh and was surmounted by a gas lamp and gallery. After some 'lit-le incidents," which he informed the captain were 'No ding Sare' (Anglice "Nothing sir") he sent two enormous lines to a mooring buoy on the wrong side of the harbour and went ahead in such a manner that these had to be left on the boov and recovered afterwards. To-day, evidently, other pieces of broken hull have been discovered, for the passage has been stopped for a few hours until such time as the channel can be rebroyed, as was the case formerly. No actual reliable information can be gathered as to the state of things at Kil. 10, but it is anticipated that the Canal will be absolutely c'ear of all signs of wreckage of this somewhat interesting ship by the end of April. Considerable dredging has to be done, but the greater part of the mass of twisted and broken ironwork has been removed. When down at the spot a fiw days ago I saw on the eastern bank no less a quantity of broken plates and frame than 800 tons. This, coupled with the 700 tons odd now in Port Said, should pretty nearly represent the whole of

FLOREAT DAMANHOUR.

The inhabitants of Damanhour have been ager for the Government to endow their town with a municipal régime of a similar character to those at Mansourah and Medinet el-Fayoum, and it has been therefore decided to establish a mixed local Commission of eleven members in that town. The members will be the Moudin of the Behera province (chairman), the inspector of the Western Towns and State Buildings or his delegate, and the sanitary inspector of the our land and thus they may take measures on their return home to induce the high Governber members in right of their position. The be members in right of their position. The remainder will consist of four European and four native members chosen by the electorate.

The Egyptian weather is undoubtedly gaining an evil reputa-tion. The changes which have occurred of late ave been as erratic as one is accustomed to expect in the "old country." Certainly we have had unusual weather — sudden changes from hot to cold, from dry to wot. A gale blew last night and con-tinue; till this morning, when rain fell and threatened to con-tinue throughout the day. The glass shows a tendency to rise.

PROSPECTUS

L'objet de la Société est l'achat, l'amélioration, l'exploitation et la vente de terrains, notamment dans la province de Gharbieh. Elle possède actuellement un domaine d'environ

9,000 feddans à Ras el Khalig (Gharbieh) dont The New Egyptian Company. Limited. le coût s'élève y compris les frais à ce jour à L.E. 314,000 soit en moyenne un peu moins de L.E. 35, par feddan.

Ces terrains d'excellente qualité situés à pr ximité du Ni', de plusieurs grands cananx d'irrigation et de drainage, de la station du shemin de fer et de plusieurs villages populeux, ne demandent pour atteindre une valeur très supérieure à leur prix de revient que des travaux d'amélioration, tels que nivellements routes et canaux, constructions, etc. Cas travaux ont été commencés depuis plusieurs mois et sont poursuivis activement sous la direction du Conseil d'Administration assisté d'un comité technique composé de personnes d'une compétence spéciale reconnue, notamment de M. Georges Eid, directeur général de la Société Agricole et Industrielle d'Egypte. En outre, des améliorations importantes ont été également obtenues dans l'irrigation et le drainage. Cet ensemble de mesures a commencé à porter ses fruits et déjà des offres d'achat ont été faites par des cultivateurs de la région pour diverses parcelles améliorées à des prix dépassant les prévisions les plus optimistes.

D'après le programme établi par le Con seil d'administration et le comité technique les travaux d'amélioration coûteront environ L.E. 90 000 et seront répartis sur une période de oirq années à la suite de laquelle le revenu moyen des terrains sera au minimum de 350 à 400 P.T. par feddan ce qui porterait la valeur des terrains de L.E. 60 à L.E. 70 par feddan.

Pendant cette période d'attente les terrains rapporteront au fur et à mesure de leur mise en culture un revenu annuel de P.T. 200 à 300 par feddan. En même temps il sera procédé à des ventes partielles dont le bénéfice viendra s'ajouter aux revenus de l'exploitation. La Conseil d'administration compte faire psage de la faculté qui lui a été réservée par les Statuts d'émettre des obligations jusqu'à concurrence de L.E. 200.000 et d'appliquer cette somme à l'achat d'autres terrains déià en culture et de réalisation rapide ce qui permettra de distribuer des dividendes sans attendre l'achèvement des travaux d'amélioration.

Les 35.000 titres qui font l'objet de la présente émission, soit environ le tiers du capital, ont été spécialement réservés en vue d'une émission publique en Egypte pour obtenir la cote efficielle de la Bourse du Caire. Les deux autres tiers du capital ont é-é placés immédiament après la constitution de la Société.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

(BY OUR LADY CORRESPONDENT).

All Cairo turned out en masse to witness the great Military Tournament at Abbassieh on Friday, which was also honoured by the presence of H. H. the Khedive and T. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales. A long procession of carriages followed the interminable Sharia Abbas to the huge parade-ground, round which fluttered innumerable flags and which was surrounded by a seething crowd of people of all nationalities. Gaily-decorated archways at either end of the ground led on to a broad drive of sand for the use of the illustrious guests, the more lowly visitors finding 'heir way to the back of the ground, where admittance was gained by the production of invitation cards. The sumptuous tent and enclosure of honour erected opposite the centre of the ground divided the gay European crowd on one side from the ranks of the tarbooshed on the other, and the number of fa-hionable people among the former showed that Cairo is still far from being empti d. A grateful wind tempered the high sun, though the latter neces sitated such a display of sunshades that it was likely the Sultan's as ours or the Khedive's. impossible to follow what was happening on the ground unless luck gave one a seat in the first row or the chance of standing on one in the background.

H.H. the Khedive drove on to the ground preceded by his Body Guard soon after 8.30 and some quarter of an hour later the band struck up our national anthem and the Prince of Wales appeared upon the scene. The Princess of Wa'es, who had spent the earlier part of the afternoon with the Khedivah at Koubbeh, did not arrive till nearly 4.30, when tea Sultan by an honest statement that we mean was served, and after which she presented the prizes to the victorious individuals and teams. The Princess, who never has looked better than she does at the present was wearing white of some soft filmy description, and many others were favouring this ever-popular hot-weather

There was a plethora of pretty frocks, per haps none so cool and fresh-looking as those pure white tinons with insertions of coarse lace and embroidery. The young girls were radiant in their dainty muslins, and many a new hat was giving satisfaction to its fair wearer. There was not sufficient time to take in both tournament and onlookers, and we fancy the homan element gained most of the attention. We noticed Mrs. Hute on in a smart skirt wi halace blouse and one of the small brimmed hatssheso much affects, and the youngest Miss Hurley was also wearing a small brimmed hat of much the same calibre which suited her to perfection. Mrs. Wynne is always lucky in her head-gear and never more so than on this occasion, when she was wearing a straight wide-brimmed fawn a raw. very much banke i up at the back with ruchings of talle and adorned with a few large roses. Misa York was wearing a very dainty costume of soft grey, a grey mushroom hat giving her a delightfully old-fashioned air. Mrs. Scott-Dalglei h was in a cool muslin with some suspicion of mauve both about her dress and hat, and Miss Whittaker had also chosen mauve colouring for her pretty muslin. Mrs. Bayley, who is always original in her toilettes, was wearing a carious little green silk caps with a thin cloth skirt of the same colour. Mrs. George Royle was in violet with a touch of blue at the waist, and though on paper the colours do not seem on friendly terms the combination of them was quite attractive. There were many other pretty toilettes, but space forbids their men-

As for the tournament, as before remarked there was but little time to watch it. We caught glimp-es of deadly little guns on their carriages being rattled round the course at a tremendous gallop, and the wrestling on bare-backed horses by swarthy riders was most exciting. So, too was the tent pagging by squads, the men all showing Breat dexterity and wonderful finish. There were some exbayonet work, but the latter took place too far off to watch with any satisfaction. Hence we confined our attention to thing mearer at hand, not forgetting the attractions offered by the tea tent, which were a preciated to the full by one and all. It was a most successful afterno in and came to a most successful conclusion with the presentation of prizes by our own gracious Princess, who wins the people's hearts wherever she appears.

EGYPT AND TURKEY.

THE FRONTIER QUESTION.

In the course of a letter to the editor of the Tribnne" on the Akaba question, Mr. Wilfrid Blurt remarks :-

"The question in dispute is a serious one, but one we have brought upon ourselves by a long course of gratuitous meddling. At present it largely occupies the native mind at Cairo. The creation of a strong Turkish military station, within striking distance of Suez - for the pilgrim road is on hard gravel easily traversed by artillery - appeals to the imagination of the many dissatisfied with English rule, and native hopes have been raised that at last the Sultan means to intervene.

A Plea for an Agreement.

"I do not myself balieve any such design to be within the Sultan's view, nor, even if it were, do I see in what way our Government could practically resent it. It is clear that we cannot go to war with Turkey on so frivolous a pretext as the prevention of an improve ment in one of the Ottoman seaports or the exact interpretation of a Firman affecting a few miles of unoccupied desert which are as Nor, again, can we prevent by force his garrisoning the station as he p'eases. Still less do I see what we practically could do through our military position in Egypt. We might indeed, bombard the fort of Akabab, but it is very doubtful if we could dislodge the Ottoman troops already in possession and entrenched inland. What I do see, however. very plainly in the matter-and it is my original pleading-is that we shall come to terms quickly on all these disputes with the to meddle no more with his Arabian affairs. It will be well for up, too, if we could condescand to regularize with him our position in Egypt, at present wholly irregular."

In a second communication Mr. Blunt complains of the attitude of the home Press with regard to the situation, which he described as a real danger. "It reminds me," he remarka, "precisely of the days before the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, when the then Liberal Cabinet, led on by Lords Granville and Northbrook, with Mr. Chamber'ain, was preparing for the bloody plunge which proved their rain The Tory Press was clamouring then, as now, for armed intervention, and the "Daily News" and the rest of the Liberal Press were dumb -dumb till it was all too late.

"I trust, therefore, that you (the "Tribune" will continue your protest against violent measures, and I trust, too, that some members of the Radical section of the party will closely question Sir Elward Grey as to the whole affair and press at once for papers.

"As a postscript to my letter printed on Saturday I may add that I know the whole locality of Akabah personally, having vi-ited it thirty years ago. At that time there was certainly no such inhabited place as Tabah, nor was the island of Faranun inhabited. I feel quite certain now that Tabah has never been an Egyptian village, or has ever been under Egyptian authority in any form. Its name, which is probably identical with the Turkish Tabia, a fort, anggests that it has been recently put up by the Turkish garrison from Akabah, as showing their right to the Gulf head. There is a tradition that he island of Faraoun was once occupied by the Crusaders, but Akabah, even in the days of Solomon can never have been more than a seaport standing, as it does, in a deser country quite uncultivable through lack of water. There are no remains, as far as I remember, of ary buildings outside the Akabah fort of ancient

Who is the Wirepuller?

The 'Giobe" -ay : It is reported by the 'Daily Telegraph's" representative at Constantinople that German diplomacy holds strictly aloof from the boundary disputs between Turkey and Egypt. But if that be the case, the inevitable question presents itself who is the subter-anean manipulator of Yıldiz Kiosk? The Sultan, astute and wily statesman as he undoubtedly is, would never defy Egypt's Western protectorfor that is what it com-s. to-nnless he was encouraged to do so by promises of support from one quarter or another. To hazard such a perilous venture as that Abdul H.mid would need to have lost, to a lunatic degree, all sense of proportion. Then, what European ruler can it be who secretly instigates the Grand Turk to essay that insane fat? That is a riddle beyond the power of an Œ lipus to solve; as matters stand, it certainly would appear that either the Kaiser must be trying to bring off another Morocco coup, to lower both British and French prestige or that there is no one ope ating behind the some-Happi'y in either instar ce, the proper course to be followed by England is too plainly marked even for Radical perversity to mistake. This country is pledged up to the hilt to uphold all Egyptian interests, whether purely political or territorial, by force of arms, if necessary. We frank'y accepted that responsibility when Mr. Glad-tone ordered the bombardment of Alexandria and the overthr w of Arabi Pacha's usurped power. Butth contract became still more direct and binding when France volum tarily surrendered her political position on the Nile by executing the Anglo-French Agreement. And it was the same diplomatic comract that sought to strengthen French authority in Morocco, that being the chief make weight for the recognition of British control on the Nile.

FRANCE AND EGYPT.

FRESH LIGHT ON FASHODA.

M. Etienne Lamy, the eminent academician, who conducts "Le Correspondent," has just republished under the title "The Lesson of a Century," the complete collection of his historic studies on France's rôle in Egypt-its greatness, its decline, and its fall.

The last of the articles, which appeared s few days ago, was devoted entirely to the Congo-Nile Mission, and gave several previously unpublished details of great interest with respect to the Fashods affair.

M. Lamy proceeds to tell how Marchand conceived the Fa-hoda plan. In doing so he pictures Marchand's keen penetration with regard to England's policy in Africa. Marchand not only saw that England had begun to connect the Cape and Cairo, but also that she was preparing for the other great effort, which would create a junction between her East African possessions and those of the Niger.

If this immense 'Engli h cross' was traced on the map of Africa, the Continent would be carved up into four sections, the communications between which could be opened or shut at England's will.

England would thus "become mistress of what she seemed to leave to others"; and no interests were more menaced than those of France. Marchand's solution of the problem shortly was : Fashoda was the key of the situation. Here the two arms of the "cross" intersected. Take this, and the cross was severed with a single stroke. In case England preferred to pay rather than to fight for its Cape-Cairo domination, large concessions in Eastern Africa might be wrested from it.

After prolonged persuasion Marchand succeeded (in June, 1996) in bringing the French Government around to his way of thinking and left for Fashoda, with the command not to make known, before his end was achieved, his true rôle as 'Chief of the Congo Nile Mission,'

The difficulties that the expedition had to encounter are dealt with at length, Marchand's progress being traced down to his arrival in Fashoda, where he found "the rains of a population in the ruins of a city." Marchand had conquered nature; now began the struggle against man. "L'Eclair," whi h publishes the remarkable story of the former to-day, will produce to morrow what it describes as the most tragic part of M. Etienne Lamy's memorable study-that of the Anglo-French conflict, emb rrassed by the pusillanimity of Delossaé, and, thanks to his lack of discornment, brought to an end so unproficably for France."

GORDON MEMORIAL MISSION.

An encouraging message has been received in London from the headquarters of the above mission at Bor, on the Upper Nile. The letter says, respecting the journey to Bor : 'We had a most interesting journey, and at a distance of only eleven miles inland found a chain of immense villages stretching northwards - so they assured us-for 250 miles to Tar. This vast inland plateau was absolutely free from mosquitoes at night, so that for the first time for many days we used no mo quito nots. The people ware everywhere most friendly. The missionaries were accompanied by Archdescon Gwynne. The advantage of a station at Bor is that the workers are in direct contact with the Dinkas, a tribe numbering about two millions

CYPRUS MAIL SERVICE.

A Nicesia correspondent writes :

"Cyprus has been d prived for some we-ks of a regular mail service. Few here believed that such a thing would be allowed actually to come to pass, and even when the blow fell the to refused to believe that this isole tion would be other than of very short duration. Constarnation has now given way to a f-eling of bewilderment and reluctant resignation and merchants and others whose business is with foreign parts are suff ring by reason of the uncertainty and d lay in correspondence and means of transport which the cessation of the mail contract implies. The invariable testimony of impartial and competent persons who have from time to time visited the Island is that Cyprus possesses exceptional possibilities of development. There is an unvarying expression of opinion that with capital and proper means of transport the island might again become what it formerly was, the granary and the garden of the East, and within the last few years a good trade with Egypt and European countries has grown up. The i-ola tio now imposed apon Cypras can scarely fail to check her powers of expansion and canse a most u fortunate shrinkage in her trade. It is earneally to be hoped that s remedy for this pitiable state of things will

MUTATIONS IMMOBILIERES EN EGYPTE.

L'enregistrement des mutations immobilières entre mort et vif n'étant pas obligatoire d'après les dispositions de la loi actuelle régissant les bureaux de publicité, il s'ensuit qu'on ne peut être exactement fixé sur la propriété réelle des biens en Egypte. De là résulte un grand nombre d'inconvénients pour les tran sactions immobilières qui prennent depuis quelque temps des proportions considérables. Cette défectuosité de la loi actuelle peut avoir des conséquences très graves pour la sûreté des transferts de la propriété en Egypte. Il est donc à souhaiter que le projet que le gouvernement égyptien a présenté à ce sujet aux puissances soit au plus tôt mis en exécu-

CONCERT LANDI

Le concert vocal donné Vendredi soir au New Khedivial Hotel par Mme Landi, avec le concours de ses élèves, a été un des mieux réussis de la saison.

Le public, aussi nombreux que choisi, a acclamé, comme il convenait. Mme Landi, dont la réputation n'est plus à faire. L'air de "l'Eulèvement au Sérail," de Mozart a été chanté à ravir par cette artiste admirable.

Le chœur "Donne Curiose," de M° Usilio, exécuté d'une façon remarquable, a été fort Les élèves de Mme Landi, qui étaient en même temps ses collaboratrices dans cette brillante soirée artistique, se sont tout particulièrement distinguées par l'excellence de leur méthode de chant.

Nous citerons parmi les meilleures Mlles Boccia, Serrachioli, Maillan et Miani qui possèdent aussi de fort belles voix.

Mme Bardone a rendu avec beaucoup d'art le "Spicide" de la Gioconda.

Une mention spéciale est dûe à Mile Della Rovere, qui s'est révélée une accompagnatrice hors ligne. Une grande partie du succès de ce concert lui revient incontestablement. Des fleurs et une jardinière superbe ont été offertes à Mme Landi.

Great care has been taken to arrange them as accurately and concisely as possible, and it will be found that none of them are fraught on leaving Egypt is Sicily. with difficulty. This depends partly upon the month in which you leave Egypt, for Cairo in January may be a little warmer than the Riviera, and possibly not so warm as Sicily, but in March it will be warmer than Rome, and more uniformly warm than many other places in Europe Many people leave Exypt far too early in the year, for as a rule the weather in April and May is perfect. The warmest place to go to

Some will want to take into consideration the number of days to be spent at sea, and we therefore subjoin a list showing the time occupied on each of the various routes between Egypt and the Continent of Europe.

SICILY.

The direct route to Sicily is by the Florio-Rubattino Co.'s steamers which leave Alexandria weekly for MESSINA, where one takes train to TAORMINA, one of the most charm ing and popular places on the island. Giardini is he station at which to alight, and the drive up to Taormina is most delightful, occupying about one hour. In and around the town is much to interest the visitor. The theatre is of Greek origin, but restored under the Romans.

CATANIA is the starting place for the ascent of Etna and here also is a fine Cathedral. The Greek, Roman, and Saracenic remains that are found all over the island, are an endless sources of pleasure. SYRACUSE has an interesting history, having been a Greek city, which was designed by Demosthenes in

B.C. 413, and taken by the Romans in B.C. 212, when Archimedes was slain - his tomb is to be seen. The cathedral was once an ancient pagan temple. PALERMO, with about 300,000 inhabitants, is the capital of the Island, and enjoys a delightful climate. Much of interest is to be found in this fine city. The Palazzo Reale is of Saracenic origin and close to it the church of S. Girannia degli Eremiti with its picturesq e cloisters. The Cathedral, Museum, Botanic Gardens, Villa Giulia and Royal Park

CENTRAL ITALY.

The fine steamers of the North German loyd leave Alexandria every Wednesday

during the season for Naples, the voyage being only 3 days.

NAPLES is also reached in 10 hours from Palermo by the Florio-R battino Co.'s steam-ratemo by the Fiorio-Voltatino Co.'s seamers, which leave daily. One cannot approach Naples or leave it without wishing to explore some of its islands, besides the lovely places on its bay—Castellamare and Sorrento. The small steamer that takes you to Sorrento [you can drive too] will take you on to Capri.

From Naples to ROME is a train journey of but five hours. All who can will devote at least one week to visiting the many historical and interesting portions of the Eternal City, whose charms and beauties are too well-known to need comment here.

Leaving the Eternal City with much regret, a railway journey of five hours brings you to FLORENCE, where another week can well be spent admiring the City of Flowers and its s rrounding country. In Florence itself the churches and galleries are of absorbing interest, whilst the local promenades and excursions should not be omitted. The Cascine is the most attractive and fashionable promenade in Florence, whilst the Viale dei Colli, one of the finest walks in Europe, opened 35 years ago, goes winding up through the hills a distance of four miles. The most delightful excursion outside Florence is that to Vallomexcursion outside Florence is that to Valumbrosa, with its Monastery 3,300 feet above the sea level. This is made first by ordinary train from Florence to St. Ellero, thence by cogwheel railway to Saltino. The ascent through groves of oaks takes an hour, and most striking panoramas are unfolded to view.

PISA is easily reached from Florence in hours hours become for the state of the Cathadral about 2 hours ; here there is a fine Cathedral and the Leaning Tower. A stay of at least one night should if possible be made, in order to enjoy the view from the Campanile at sunset.

VIAREGGIO. One of the most delightful places on the Italian Riviera near Pisa and on the main line from Rome to Genoa. It is a very convenient half-way house between Egypt and England, and where living is reasonable and the air and surroundings exceptionally

The steamers, of the P. & O. North German The long sea routes—from Port Said or Lloyd, Orient and Messageries Maritimes Alexandria to Plymorth, Southampton, London are the largest. The Anchor, British India, and Bibby Lines are also excellent, and their steamers are largely patronised by travellers

As regards the train journeys from Cairo, the shortest is that to Alexandria, without change (3 hours). That to Port Said, can now be made without change in 4½ hours.

The least expensive way to England is by the Moss, Papayanni, Prince, and Westcott lines of steamers from Alexandria to Liverpool. The German Levant line has also good steamers from Alexandria to Hamburg.

The quickest through Continental routes are by the P. & O. Brindisi express from Bombay.

Port Said, and the Austrian Lloyd Trieste-Vienna express from Alexandria.
As regards heavy luggage, it must be borne in mind that very little luggage is allowed free on the railways of Europe, but there are several good and responsible forwarding agents in Egypt who undertake at a fixed charge to deliver packages to any address in Europe.

The quickest manner of getting to Europe from Port Said is undoubtedly by the fast Mail Steamers "Osiris" and "Isis" to Brindisi. One of these leaves Port Said every week, as soon as possible after receiving the Indian strange; no horse, cart, carriage or bicycle is to be seen, and yet there is the sound of life at every turn. The approach to Venice from the Adriatic is unlike that of any other sea-port. The town seems to be grad ally, like Aphrodite, born of the sea, no hills behind, no stretches of rock, but first the tops of Cam-paniles appear above the horizon, then slowly the whole glittering town rises like a fairy mirage out of the calm lagoon.

Going northwards from Milan you make the

The church Madonna del Sasso, situated above the town, is worth a visit, as it contains interest ing paintings, "Entombment," by Ciseri, and "The Flight into Egypt," by Bramantion.

LUCERNE.—A striking picture on the Lake of Lucerne facing the Rigi and Pilatus and the snow-clad Alps.

In and around the town the walks are charming, and the excursions to be made from Lucerne by boat, rail, etc., are very numerous. The Luke of Lucerne abounds in delightful excursions, those to the Rigi, Pilatus, Burgen stock and Sonnenberg needing a special visit each. Other excursions on the lake can be made by steamer, and the ever-changing scenery on the trip from Lucerne to Fluelen is a source of delight to the lover of nature.

GREECE and IONIAN ISLES.

Many people visit Greece after wintering in Egypt, as it is so easily reached from Alexandria; the climate in April is charming. The best steamers are those of the Khedivial Mail Co. and the Russian Steam Navigation Co.

If possible tourists should arrange to be in Athens for the Orthodox Easter in order to witness the Good Friday and Easter Eve
